
This is a blog with pictures of Masha Babko. I've created this website in order to share my collection of Masha Babko's photos with people who are interested in her. I made a search engine for this site to make it fast and easy for everyone to find the picture they want, which is why there are no categories or tags. I'm going to upload new photos to this blog from time to time, so stay tuned! :)

We hope you found these tips helpful! Now get out there and get snapping! In case you need any help or inspiration, here's a few articles that might be able help get your creative juices flowing: <https://www.thebloggingguide.com/2011/12/excellent-vintage-portraits-by-masha-babko/> and for some more inspiration, check out http://www.govtgalleries.com/photographers/Masha_Babko She also wrote a book called "The Art of Masha Babko" in which she describes in detail her techniques and methods in creating her photography: <http://www.mashababko.com/>

You can always contact me - I'm always happy to help...

The book has been translated into English by Alexander Grunsky, who also creates outstanding photography books on the history of Russia.

The book has been translated into French by Yann Dubé.

It is the only book by Masha Babko in English. It was published in 2007 in Japan probably, I don't know where else it was published.

I'm not certain, but it is probable that the following items are related to Masha Babko: The following items are not directly related to Masha Babko, but they are members of the family of artists identified with her art style. This is not to be confused with the family of artists who are also named Masha Babko.

Masha Babko lived in Saint Petersburg, not far from where I live in Moscow. http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Saint_Petersburg

Here's a link to an online resume for Masha Babko: <https://www.freelancer.com/u/mashababko.html> In case you missed it, here's a link to my Facebook page where you can see more of the photos in this blog: <https://www.facebook.com/mashababkophotos>

If you want to know where a particular photo was taken, please visit the page of Masha Babko on Wikipedia: http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Masha_Babko

I am not sure about these things, but if you're interested in them, maybe they will be able to help you find out what happened to her:

She also has a new website that was released sometime in 2013.
